BETHEL, ME.—RUMFORD, ME., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1910.

$1.50 IN ADVANCE.

CAPT. R. B. GROVER DEAD.

Passed Away at His Home in Brockton, Mass.
Last Tuesday Evening, After Sickness of Several Weary Years. A Native of Bethel and a True and Worthy Son.

CAPT. R. B. GROVER.

The people of Bethel join the people of Brockton, Mass., in their mourning the loss of Capt. Robbins B. Grover. Mr. Grover was a native of Bethel and in all his history he never went out into the world a truer, more loyal, whole souled son than was he. The following is taken from the Brockton Enterprise of September 14.

While in a comatose condition, which had extended over 20 hours, Capt. Robbins B. Grover, former shoe manufacturer, passed into the eternal sleep peacefully as a child last night at 11 o'clock, at his home, 336 Main St., where he had lived for nearly 27 years. Near him when the end came was Mrs. Grover, the devoted wife who survives him, and with her were her sister, Mrs. A. N. Lunn, and Mr. and Mrs. Clara O. Emerson of this city. Capt. Grover was 69 years old. He had been ill about six days.

All Brockton mourned to learn of the death of Capt. Grover, for his friends were legion, and condolences and messages of sympathy poured in this morning. From friends in various parts of the country came these messages, as well as from those nearer. Various organizations of which he was a member made arrangements to evince suitable respect for his useful life.

Mrs. Grover is bearing up well under the loss. Her devotion to her husband during his extended illness was marked and she had brought a poignant grief. He smiled at her—a last cheerful and comforting farewell, it seemed—just before he lapsed into unconsciousness Tuesday, and prior to that time had recognized her.

The widow is Mrs. Mary F. (Mears) Grover, to whom he was married in Houghton on Oct. 25, 1867. They had no children. Other relatives who survive are a sister, Mrs. C. C. Barker of Hartford, Conn.; a nephew, Walter Barker of New York, and two nieces, Mrs. C. O. Emerson of this city and Mrs. F. J. Redcliffe of New York.

Twice during his life Capt. Grover visited European countries. One of these trips was about 13 years ago, with W. L. Terhune, the Boston publisher. Their journey is perpetuated in a delightful volume, "My Friend, the Captain," by Mr. Terhune, and which has been read extensively here. The book gives an insight of Capt. Grover's incomparable disposition and shows what a good comrade he was.

Capt. and Mrs. Grover also traveled to some extent in this country, making one trip to California years ago.

The broad humanity of Capt. Grover was perhaps best evinced during the memorable disaster of '95. He was 30 at the time. The news was kept from him for 24 hours because of his condition. Then Rev. Dr. Bush H. Hippen was commissioned to commute it to him as gently as possible, which he did.

"May God deal gently with the widow and orphans," he said, with tears in his eyes. He asked about men whom he knew who were in his employ. He never mentioned his own great financial loss and seemed to think nothing of this feature.

Capt. Grover was born in Bethel, Oxford County, Me., July 24, 1841, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Grover. He was educated at Gould's Academy in this town. After leaving school he learned the tanner's trade in Portland, Me., at the tannery of the late Neal Dow, the well-known temperance advocate, and worked in the tannery until the war broke out in October, 1861, he enlisted at Augusta, Me., as a private in Company H, 13th Regiment, Maine Volunteer Infantry. During the war he was promoted to sergeant, second lieutenant and first lieutenant and received his commission as a captain on Jan. 11, 1865, and transferred to the 30th Maine Regiment. He was discharged in September, 1866, at Portland.

He participated in the engagements at Fort Jackson and St. Phillips, New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Port Hudson. He was in the battle at Sabine Cross Roads on April 8, 1864, where the loss of the regiment was severe, and in the battle on Pleasant Hill the following morning.

He shared in other engagements, raids and skirmishes and in October, 1863, the regiment was joined with the forces under Gen. Dana, then sailing out for an expedition to Texas. They embarked upon this expedition Nov. 3, disembarking at Brownsville, Texas, and occupying Brownsville, Nov. 7. He participated in the capture of the rebel garrison on Mustang Island, Texas, Nov. 17, and in the capture of Fort Esperanza on Nov. 25. On February 18, 1864, the regiment was joined with the forces of Gen. Franklin in eastern Louisiana and as took an active part in the Red River campaign under Gen. Banks. The regiment reached Morganza, La., May 23, 1864, having marched during the campaign nearly 1000 miles. On July 2, 1864, the regiment embarked on transports for Washington, D. C., arriving there July 12 to take part in the capture of "Early's Raiders" and marched up the Shenandoah Valley, joining the union forces at Monterey Junction.

A reunion of the 13th Maine regiment held July 11, 1884, at the home of Judge Ezekiel Foster in Bethel, Me., was a memorable occasion for those veterans. Capt. Grover, who was among those present, paid the fares of all who attended and Judge Foster furnished the banquet.

A GRAND DEMOCRATIC CELEBRATION

Bethel Contingent of Victorious Party

Loses no Time in Making the Eagle Scream.

The Bethel Democrats believe in living up to the old State Motto, "Dirigo," and scarcely had the clicking wires announced to the world that Maine had jumped out of the frying pan into the fire before our Democratic leaders were perfecting arrangements for what they called a "blow out."

Thursday evening was the appointed time, and how quickly it came. At seven o'clock the strains of martial music reinforced by a tin horn in the mouth of every junior possessing sufficient wind apparatus to make it go, told the residents of the village that there was something doing up street. The crowd began to gather, and ere long the town and all the country round had come to participate in one way or another in the celebration.

For the first time in the history of Bethel, incandescents had a place in the celebration of a political victory and the streets in the vicinity of the post office as well as the store property owned by W. W. Hastings and the trees in front of the residences of D. S. and T. F. Hastings bore many a white and red globe as the decorating feature of the celebration.

After the band had dispensed music and the horn corps noise, and after the jubilant Democrats had greeted with joy and thanksgiving their friends and fellow victors and veterans and the forlorn Republicans had meekly sought a chance to exist in the background and nurse their sorrowing souls a procession of several automobiles led by a drum corps and all bearing flags and red lights proceeded down Main street and the sight as they proceeded was indeed a pretty one.

The line of parade was down Main street, up Railroad, up Church and Broad, and around the Common to the place of starting. As soon as the procession was lost to view as it passed down Main street, the attention of the crowd was summoned to the Common, where fireworks commanded attention for fully an hour, while the Bethel band from the broad plaza of Prospect Hotel, furnished a fitting conclusion of the occasion.

CANTON FAIR IN FULL SWING.

Fine Weather, Fine Exhibits, Fine Racing

And Fine Crowd of Fine Looking People.

Androcoggin Valley Agricultural Society opened its annual fair Tuesday and before noon the sun was shining and everything was in readiness for the big day "Wednesday." Wednesday proved to be a perfect fall day and a large crowd of happy people was the result.

Twenty-five new cattle stalls have been built and these are all full. "More cattle than ever before" said Capt. Ezra Keane. The poultry house is over crowded and more room will have to be added before next year. The racing events are the attraction of the year as usual. On Wednesday the 2:35 and 2:17 classes were called, but Thursday will be the big racing day.

The entries are as follows:
2:35 Class. Firms $200.
George H. Morrison Stock Farm, Livermore Falls.
Rose Hares, Morriss Stock Farm, Livermore Falls.

DEMOCRATS CELEBRATE AT RUMFORD.

Dan Mac and Obadiah in Procession.

Mexico Included in Itinerary. Speeches, Red Fire and Music.

It seemed at first as if the damp weather was going to dampen the ardor of the good Democrats on Monday night, but they were all out in spite of the elements. Rumford certainly presented a gala appearance with some of the Democratic stores and houses illuminated and ablaze out on the dark night. The parade started promptly at seven o'clock from the Democratic headquarters and the line of march was as follows: from Congress St., to the toll bridge, to Biddeford, from Biddeford to Mexico Corner and across the Mexico Bridge to Lincoln Ave., from Lincoln Ave., to Waldo, to Rumford Ave., to Knox St., to Prospect Ave., to Bridge St., to Congress again.

The parade was a long one, all along the line of march fire works were sent up, consisting of red lights and rockets, and these illuminated the sky for quite a distance. Flanked in all sides by the but from causes I cannot discover their procession, in a carriage rode, the Hon. Daniel McGillicuddy and Obadiah Gardner. Frequent cheering went up as these gentlemen were recognized. The Rumford and Dixfield Bands furnished music for the occasion and seemed not to be affected by the disagreeable weather in the least. After the line of march had been accomplished the procession escorted the speakers to the Opera House where a roaring Democratic time was had.

Who says the Democrats ought not to celebrate after thirty years, who wouldn't? This night will long be remembered by the people of Rumford as a most imposing parade in spite of trying circumstances and weather conditions.

LOCAL HISTORY.

Court Houses and Places of Records.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman.

Number 74.

IN SEVERAL PARTS—PART FOUR.

The plantations of Frankfort and Wiscasset were unlike in many respects—made unlike territorially by nature—the settlers being unlike in their form of religious worship, if not perceptibly so at first was later; Frankfort settlers being made up largely of French extraction, the others being of all nationalities, the French and German dialect predominating.

Frankfort devoted itself to agriculture largely, but Wiscasset being differently situated, with a good harbor, early became a commercial people, hence it is not strange that a line of demarcation was early established and there was a lack of fraternal feeling existing between the two places that government edicts could not efface. Each wanted to be released from the other as it shown by petitions to the General Court but from causes I cannot discover their prayers were unavailing till 1794 when Daniel McGillicuddy and Obadiah Gardner governmental times covered as I have stated—a period of thirty-four years.

The people of Wiscasset anticipating a change as inevitable prepared for the event or started out with this object in view. The tide was settling towards Wiscasset as the county or shire town of Lincoln, and it was apparent that when the change came a building for court purposes would be required, and private enterprise took the matter by the forelock.

Mr. Joseph Wood, born in Wiscasset, who he edited and published "The Seaside Oracle" a number of years, now the editor and proprietor of the "Maine Coast Watch" at Portland, a great

GOULD'S ACADEMY.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES.

Prof. Geo. N. Cross of New York City has been engaged to deliver two illustrated lectures in the assembly room at Gould's Academy under the auspices of the Senior Class.

Prof. Cross will be remembered as having lectured in the same room two years ago when he delighted all who listened to him.

His first lecture, Washington, the beautiful Capitol of a Great Nation will be given Wednesday evening, Sept. 22nd.

Admission 25c. Admission to both lectures, if tickets are bought at one time 40c. Tickets on sale by members of the Senior Class.

The Testimony of the Schools.

Prof. Cross is one of the best lecturers on the platform today. It is all so beautifully told that there is an impression of permanent value to the hearer.—Report of Bradford Academy lecturer.

He brings to his lectures a wealth of knowledge of literature and history and such a keen sympathy with the best things of life that he is one of the most interesting lecturers I have ever heard.—Eris I. W. Travell, Hallowell, N. J. High School.

I wish to express to you our appreciation of the lectures you have given at this Academy this year and in preceding years. The students, the teachers and the citizens of the community alike ask each year that your name be included in the list of lecturers for the season.—Principal Tracy, Kimball Union Academy.

The lectures you gave us on Washington was splendid, both views and lecture itself. Many warm words of praise have come to me from even the most critical in the audience. We were all delighted. We shall hope to have you come again.—Capt. Dempsey, St. Johnsbury.

MASQUERADE BALL

Under Auspices Universalist Society, Bethel.

The Masquerade ball given under the auspices of the Universalist society in Odeon Hall last Friday evening was one of the pleasing and long-remembered occasions of the season in Bethel.

The stage was very prettily decorated with cut flowers and the hall, well, the hall was fitted with all sorts and conditions of people. There were Indians, Quakers, Chinamen, Japs, Turks, Crows and what not but they could all dance "Yankee." Some thirty couples formed for the grand march, all in costume. After three dances they recovered their identity, many others joined them from the gallery and the order was completed. Ice cream and cake were served at intermission. The music was by Stearns Orchestra.

Shaw is the first Maine institution to introduce the Wahl Adding Attachment into its course of study, and proves conclusively that the policy of the management to equip its students with all up-to-date appliances.

A CORRECTION.

In last week's issue of the Citizen we published the vote in Oxford County received by the governor, congressman and sheriff. At least we intended to do so but in connection with the vote for congressman we omitted several towns from the list with the result of reducing the total vote considerably below what it was and causing it to appear that Congressman Bradley ran behind his ticket, when, as a matter of fact, he got the largest vote in Oxford county of any candidate on the list.

Congressman Bradley got 3286 votes. The next largest was received by Clark of Courtois, Chas. E. Whitman, who received 3281. The smallest Republican vote was received by J. M. Bartlett, candidate for sheriff who received 3705. The next smallest was received by Gov. Fernald who got 3807.

AN OPTIMISTIC NOTE.

The American people still have the power. Theirs is the responsibility. Are signs visible that they are evading it? Rather the reverse. Neither of the great political parties is unified in proposing remedies. One apparently is rent in twain. But in that fact lies no cause of alarm. The true significance is to the highest degree encouraging. That great problems cannot be resolved in a day, a month or a year, is a patent truth that demands recognition. But vastly more important is the certainty that, in this country, they cannot be resolved at all except through the application of the best intelligence of all the people.

Hence the hopefulness in the obvious awakening of minds throughout the land. Already we perceive a growing demand for more competent representation in Congress, for higher standards of fitness in all public officials, for closer attention to public duties, for greater efficiency in every direction. This can only mean that acts of those in temporary authority will be more sharply scrutinized and that the people themselves in order to pass discerning criticism, will attain better understanding. Surely, when we consider further that independence and fairness of judgment are the offspring, if not indeed, essential concomitants of intelligence, we can find in this arousal no cause of misgiving; rather, springs of hope and faith in all that pertains to progress and civilization. DIXFIELD ITEMS.

The Happenings of the Week
as gathered by the Citizen Reporter.

The community was shocked and saddened Saturday morning to learn of the sad accident befalling our milkman, Mr. Ed. Wyman who lives on a farm a mile above the village on the West road. Mr. Wyman was standing on a girl in his barn, trying to take a ladder down which was chained to the barn. The chain breaking which caused him to fall a distance of about seven feet, breaking both legs below the knee, splintering the bones and lacerating the flesh severely. Mrs. Wyman is in Lewiston Hospital, having gone there about a week ago for an operation, and her patient son, Ed, is an invalid, just recovering from a serious illness of pneumonia. The family seem to be easily afflicted and the sympathy of all is extended to them, in their trouble.

A very able and interesting discourse was enjoyed by those who attended the P. D. Church Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev. Paul Curtis choosing for his text the words found in Malachi 2:15.

Riverdale Council No. 73, Jr. O. U. A. M., was present in a body at the Universalist Church Sunday morning, and an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Gaskin was much appreciated.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Universalist Church at the home of J. P. Johnston, Monday evening Sept. 26th.

William Brown returned to Lebanon Academy last week.

George Merrill and family have spent the summer at Bearport returned to their home Saturday the 18th.

Miss Katharine Reddy returned home from Bearport, Tuesday of last week.

George Trueman was on the sick list last week.

Mr. J. C. Fogg and son of St. Hartford, recently visited at the home of Mr. Fogg's daughter, Mrs. Olive Payson.

George Gates, C. L. Dillingham, from Dixfield in company with R. F. Dillingham from Lawrence, Mass., are enjoying a two weeks' vacation at Moosehead Lake, testing, C. L. Dillingham says his record, R. F. Dillingham does the party. This party have made this annual trip for several years. Mr. Gates says "It is a healthy trip to take the cool, breezy air such as this is doing."

Henry Blackfield and family are at the Blackfield cottage on west side of Webb Lake. Mr. Blackfield is repairing the cottage and adding a porch.

Mrs. Nelson Rose and son Allen, are at St. Louis, Mo., and intend to spend the winter. Mrs. Rose taking her son there for treatment.

The dinner party given by Mary Greenwood at her home on Main St. Friday, Sept. 16th, was greatly enjoyed by the following guests, Prof. O. D. Russell, Miss George Pillsbury of Auburn, J. M. Trunk and sister, Miss Louise Trunk, from Mexico, Miss Verdie Lockwood, W. O. Hartwood and sister, Miss Gertrude Hartwood.

The advent of the baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kildner on Friday P. M., Sept. 16th, was welcomed with much pleasure. The name awaiting him, to take along life's journey was Archer Korse Kildner.

Mrs. W. R. Humphreys from Barre, Vt., was in town Saturday, the guest of Mrs. Stanley Dyer. Mrs. Humphreys was a former resident of Rumford and has many friends in this locality who were glad to welcome her, even for the brief stay.

Several of the teachers and pupils from the village schools, attended the ball game at Rumford Saturday P. M. played by the Rumford and Dixfield High School teams which resulted in a score of 16 to 21 in favor of the Rumford.

The beautiful and large variety of flowers raised and cultivated by Mrs. George A. Brown have been greatly appreciated by the village people. Mrs. Brown is a sister of Mrs. Brown and the cultivation of these is a pleasure to her. She has made it a study for several years, and is very familiar with their names and nature. The great variety of children's seedling plants, etc. have been a source of pride, to her, securing many thanks with their beauty, fragrance and color, for the time and expense in raising them. The many kinds of seedlings, all much better than the ones that have been raised in the past, and are of plants and flowers.

Brown and son Ralph intend spending the winter in Montana, where Mr. Brown is now engaged in the lumber business.

Harold Denham and Harry Rowe from West Paris were in town Saturday to play ball on the Dixfield team. They returned to their homes Sunday.

Mrs. Maud Brown and two children from Livermore Falls were guests of Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Prince Colcord.

It is worthy of note to mention the four elderly men from East Dixfield who came to vote at the State election, Monday, Sept. 12th. They came by auto and all were staunch Republicans. Mr. J. O. Eaton 83 years, Mr. W. H. Winslow 85, Mr. Oldham 84, Mr. Charles Adams 81.

The Holt Bros. and Mr. John Decker are making extensive repairs on their houses.

Dirrell Sample of Strong who has worked in Dixfield and has many acquaintances here will be pleased to learn of his entering Brewster Academy this fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newton and young son of Bloomfield, N. J., are guests of Mr. Newton's parents, Daniel Newton and wife.

CAPT. E. B. GROVER DEAD.

In the death of Capt. Grover the city loses one of its foremost and most esteemed citizens, one who had long been identified actively with its welfare and growth, who gave much of his time to public affairs and who was ever ready to assist in a charitable cause. He was a veteran of the Civil war, serving through the entire war with distinction and winning promotion, and was a member of Fletcher Webster Post, No. 13, G. A. R. of this city. He was a member of Paul Revere Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and kindred Masonic bodies in Brockton, a member of the Mystic Shrine, of the Commercial Club and other organizations and for 16 years served as one of the park commissioners of the city. He was prominent commercially and socially and for many years was well known as one of Brockton's leading shoe manufacturers.

W. B. NULTY OF BUCKFIELD
AT SOUTH PORTLAND.

William B. Nulty, one of the well known athletes in the State has been engaged to coach the athletic teams at the high school at So. Portland, besides teaching some of the important branches of study. He comes from Buckfield and graduated from Lebanon Academy in 1906, where he had given a good account of himself in athletics and attained honors in his class. He entered Bowdoin College the next fall and graduated from that institution four years later, in 1910. While at Lebanon Mr. Nulty played one of the backs on the basketball team. In Bowdoin he did not take prominent part in college athletics on account of his studies. He graduated from the college with honors.

Mr. Nulty will coach the South Portland high school football team and will also start the work of making a track team to compete for the Intercollegiate meet at Bowdoin next Spring and with the assistance of those interested and who have power, he should be able to have a track of some sort built for the boys. It is anticipated that a new gymnasium will be fixed up for the boys in the old high school and Mr. Nulty will also have charge of this, making the gymnasium what it ought to be and giving the boys the benefit of his knowledge of the various branches of athletics.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Bethel and Rumford Falls
People.

Too many Bethel and Rumford Falls citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The increasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and sleeping or resting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Pains and lameness may give relief but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Dean's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Can you doubt Rumford Falls evidence?

A. B. Gilpatrick, chief of Police, Lincoln St., Rumford Falls, Me., says: "During the past year I was annoyed greatly by a kidney weakness. I felt miserable and at last decided to try a good kidney remedy. I heard so many people speak in favor of Dean's Kidney Pills that I prepared a box and although I did not use them in strict accordance with the directions, I nevertheless received great relief. I do not hesitate to recommend Dean's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THINK IT OVER

Would the ablest business men in the country have a bank account if there was no advantage or convenience in it? Would they have been able to reach their present commanding position if they had spent half their time worrying about the safety of the money they had made?

THE RUMFORD NATIONAL BANK

invites you to open an account as they did. The same advantages they found in so doing will accrue to you if you accept the invitation.

THEY TELL OF GOD.

BY WILLIAM WATKINS HILL.

Note—Some of our Bethel readers will recall Mr. Hill, the author of the following verses, as the colored attendant of Mr. G. Paul Smith in his entertainment in Oodon Hall last month. Mr. Hill's parents were southern slaves. By his own effort he has worked his way through college and the Theological Department of Colgate University. He is not a maker of poetry but while at Bethel he stayed at Holden Hall and the beautiful mountain scenery from that location fairly intoxicated him and after sitting and gazing in the charms of his environment for several hours on Monday, Aug. 15, he wrote to his room and wrote these verses, another tribute to Bethel, coming as an outburst of a deep religious feeling inspired by the beauty of our majestic hills.

"The heavens declare the glory of God"

The earth no less than they;

The starry sky, the earth's gross clod,

Each one has much to say.

Had we but ears, and sight, and heart

To hear, and see, and feel

The glorious message which they impart,

What love into our hearts would steal!

The distant mountains tell their tale

In wondrous tones, and low,

Of love, of grace, that does not fail,

Of a Father's heart aglow.

Their form and grandeur, and their size,

Which make them all sublime

To him who looks with reverent eyes

They spell the word "Divine."

O, mountains grand! so nobly grand!

Your proud peaks rising high,

Though firmly rooted to earth they stand,

They kiss the vaulted sky.

To some their wondrous form and size

No cheering message bring—

No sacred tokens greet their eyes,

No heavenly anthems ring.

A somber garb and form austere,

A sad and solemn dirge

They only see and only hear,

Nor from gross earth emerge,

Nor feel the sacred, kindling flame

Which burns in hearts devout—

See not the word, read not the name

Be beautifully spelled out.

They, of earth, still earthly are,

And nothing of Him know,

Who made them, mountains, placed you there,

And crowned your heads with snow;

But, in some vague and distant way,

He may, perhaps, control

The wind, and rain, the sunny day,

The clouds that o'er you roll.

But your huge form a language speaks

Of power, of grace, of love,

Of one who cares, who never sleeps,

Who fills the realm above;

And yet He deigns to come to earth,

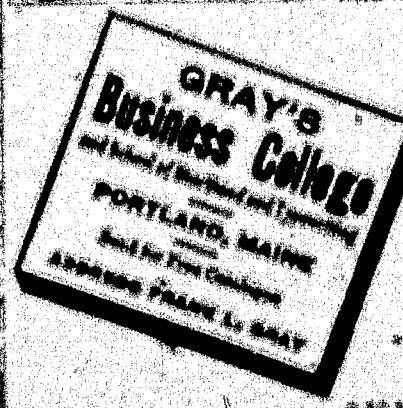

To those that earthily be

He gives the choice of sacred birth

And heaven's felicity.

Your massive grandeur lifts sublime,

Your ridges meet easy

Into the distant blue and shine

That mark the close of day.

The rosy-tinted sunset sky

A coronet, more grand,

Makes for your eternal head so high,

Than made by human hand.

The clouds that gather 'round your head

And often o'er you weep

Such copious tears, so widely spread,

That down your face they sweep

And, gathering at your foot, they form

The brooks, with gentle motion,

Which through the fields and meadows roam,

To lose themselves in ocean.

These fleet messengers, too, speak

To him who has an ear

To hear their voices, a wish to seek

RUMFORD.

A. B. Tucker spent Sunday in Portland.

Mrs. W. S. N. Ellingwood entertained her mother, Mrs. Jones of Wilton, Saturday.

Mrs. Benj. Schwind was confined to the house several days last week on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Walker attended the Oxford County Fair two days of last week.

Archie Griffin has been confined to the house for several days with quincy sore throat.

Wyatt Ranlett and Ray Harris left Monday to attend Phillips Exeter School at Exeter.

Mrs. Harry Mosher went Thursday to make a visit with her sister, Mrs. Rankin of Mechanic Falls, for a week.

H. O. Burditt returned the first of the week from a visit with his mother and daughter in Arlington, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pottle of Glen Falls, N. Y., are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a young son.

Joe Gersberg left Wednesday morning to return to his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mrs. E. S. Kennard and Mrs. J. A. Niles were sent as delegates to the Woman's Federation from the Searchlight Club, held at Skowhegan, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Osgood, with their daughter, Mrs. Gould McIntire, and her young son, are stopping at their camp on the Rangeleys for a week's vacation.

A. E. Stearns and wife, L. W. Blanchard and wife and Geo. McMenamin took an auto trip to South Paris on Wednesday and attended the Oxford County Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Towle returned from a brief wedding journey spent at Wald Pond, Monday noon and were heartily received by a party of their friends with confetti at the station.

A. F. Barton, wife and son of Dorchester, Mass., with Mrs. Perkins of Auburn and Mrs. Chase from Newmarket, were the guests of Mrs. W. S. Downs, Friday making the trip from Massachusetts by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cowan with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cowan of Stonington, Conn., and Mrs. Alfred Sparks were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Bradbury of Norway during the last two days of the Oxford County Fair.

A party of about forty young people consisting of the boards at Mrs. W. S. Downs, went on a corn roast Saturday night at Chas. Abbott's. The night was delightful and the crowd went and came in a hayrack and report one of the jolliest times ever had. The only serious accident was a slight burn behind the ear which one of the party received from a hot ear of corn.

A delightful party was given on Saturday night, by Miss Edith Flagg for Miss Eva Eaton. Twelve young ladies were present and the evening was spent at cards, the highest score being made by J. A. Niles and she received as a prize a dainty hand painted guest book. The lowest prize was won by Mrs. John Hadley and was a box of candy. Delicious refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was passed by all.

On Friday night the class of '10 gave Chas. Atwood, their classmate a surprise party before his entrance to college on Monday at the U. of M. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. Atwood, who was urged by a member of the family to go down town and when he returned the young people had arrived. The evening was passed in playing games and going over old school experiences. A delightful bunch of school, old rolls, coffee, cake and tea were served by Mrs. Atwood and the party left wishing Mr. Atwood all the success possible in his college career.

Geo. Hutchins returned on Monday night from a short trip to Portland.

Jake Israelson and family were the guests of relatives over Sunday, returning to their home in Livermore the first of the week.

The Emergency Hospital has several cases of typhoid fever, one very serious one, an Italian. The hospital is filled to its utmost capacity.

John Brown in the employ of the Maine Telephone Co., met with a slight accident on Friday by the falling of a telephone pole onto his foot.

A car load of draft horses was brought here from the west for sale and may be found at the stable of Ames and Morse on Bridge St. One horse was killed on the way being trampled on.

Miss Laura Thompson of No. Anson who recently returned from Santa, Ga., where she went to accompany the coming of her sister Mrs. J. H. McKean is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Blanchard.

Geo. D. Blabue went to Portland, Monday on business and will visit Hobron on his way back to attend the Quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees at Hobron Academy, of which he is president.

A. L. Davis will exhibit his famous hens at the Oxford Fair this week, these hens are Rhode Island Reds and began laying eggs at the age of five months and six days and have been at it ever since. They were hatched out in the spring.

On Monday night at about 1:30 a fire alarm was sounded on the Mexico side, and a house owned by a Mr. Merrill of Dixfield burned to the ground. The house was unoccupied at the time and circumstances point strongly to the fact the building must have been set.

A dance was gotten up by Mark Steinfeld and Albert Thibodeau on Monday night at McMenamin Hall. About forty couples were present and the music was furnished by Wells and Mauritz. A most excellent time was enjoyed.

Robert Blair employed by F. O. Walker at his stable, and well known around town met with quite a serious accident at the Oxford County Fair last week. As he was crossing the track a trotting horse ran into him and knocked him down, bruising him quite a good deal in the head. Mr. Blair is still at Paris but is able to be around.

The little son of Tom French had quite a serious accident on Saturday, while playing with another little boy. This boy while fooling with a tin ball threw it into the air in such a way that in falling it struck Tommy French in the head and cut quite a gash. The little fellow was taken to Dr. McGary's hospital and it was necessary to take several stitches in the boy's head.

The Rumford Falls Power Co., draw the upper and lower canal on Sunday for the purpose of setting light poles for the transmission of power to the Oxford Paper Co., and one of the laughable instances which occurred was the catching of eels by the Polish people. These eels as everyone knows are very slippery and the Poles would grasp them in their hands and in order to keep them from slipping would seize the heads of the eels in their mouths and lift them onto the shore.

The Young People's Union of the Universalist Church had a corn roast at the home of Frank Putnam on Friday night. About twenty five young people walked out to the farm where, in Mr. Putnam's pasture, a roasting big bonfire had been built right in the left of a large rock, just an ideal place for a corn roast. The party gathered around the rock and roasted their ears after which coffee and doughnuts were served, also apples. With much regret the party left the bonfire about ten o'clock and descended to the house where music was enjoyed and a jolly time in general. Before leaving the party gave three cheers for the Putnam family for the royal way they had entertained the Union. Mr. Putnam then took his hayrack and brought the party home and all voted it one of the best times they had ever had.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES OUTLINED.

The football world is now in a quandary, and for weeks the one question on the minds and lips of the followers of the greatest of all college games will be, "What will be the effect of the changes in rules which were announced recently?"

The seven main changes will be briefly summarized as follows: The abolition of the flying tackle; interlocking interference as well as pushing and pulling the man with the ball and the longitudinal lines on the field; the division of the time into four fifteen minute periods; the limitation of the forward pass to twenty yards; giving the ends right of way in the twenty yard zone in getting under punts; allowing players taken from the game for slight injuries to re-enter.

Coaches generally are disposed to be liberal. Some are of the opinion the games will be benefited. Others favor some of the changes, but refuse to condemn the new rules as a whole until they have been given a trial.

The old guard—warriors of the gridiron of several years ago—look upon the game as a cross between Canadian Rugby, cricket and basketball. To these it appears that every element of the old game has been destroyed. The brilliant features that were worked into sensational plays, the factors that thrilled millions and became college history, have been done away with in one grand sweep.

What has been given in return only the future can tell. Doubtless the new game will appeal to an entirely new element. There are those, too, who delight in any college sport, so that reformed football will doubtless find its followers.

The changes are an answer for the country wide demand for a modification of the sport. There is no one but who hopes for the success of the game as it will be played this fall.

One thing is certain—it will put a premium on coaches. The days of line bucking have passed. The coach with ingenuity, foresight and power to adapt his plays to the new conditions will wear the laurels. Never have the rules left such a wide scope to the man at the helm.

The passing of the flying tackle, while generally anticipated, will be received with greater regret than probably any other change. The flying tackle was the very rudiment of the old game. There was no one play in the football curriculum by which a real player could be played so quickly as by the flying tackle. The man that got the best off the ground was the choice of the coach.

This one change favors the offense, but whether it makes up for the changes in favor of the defense is an open question. Many football critics are of the opinion that it will be next to impossible to make ten yards if the teams are anywhere near evenly matched.—American Press.

BREAD.

A new and novel Bread Book has just been issued by the Passenger Department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. The cover is an illustration of a bread basket. Inside the "basket" are a number of illustrations picturing the bread winners at work, ploughing, reaping and threshing scenes, and running through the pictures are the words of progress and development of that wonderful West and north of the French of the steel Rogers of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

DON'T BREAK DOWN.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't overtax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters—the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. H. Van de Sande, of Richmond, Ill., writes: "That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Mrs. Miriam Whitman who has been in California since last fall arrived at her home at George B. Morton's. She was accompanied by her son Lester L. Whitman and wife of Pasadena, Calif.
Rev. Chester Gore Miller and family arrived Sunday from Montana and are staying with the family of George A. Albert on Wheeler St. Rev. Mr. Miller will resume preaching the first Sunday in October.

Conductor A. L. Robinson of the Sandy River and Bangor Lakes Railroad was the guest of his brother, Geo. D. Robinson, during last week. Mr. Robinson was formerly on the Grand Trunk but for the last thirteen years has been on the Phillips and Bangor Railroad and at one time was Supt. of that road.

The former Sticks of the Methodist church will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday by Rev. A. W. Pettie of Rockfield. Address by Rev. B. C. Westworth of Norway. Rev. D. R. Ford of West Paris and Rev. O. D. Holmes of the Lewiston District. The Sabbath Quartette will sing. The box will contain a copy of the church discipline, a list of the official members, a copy of Mr. Pettie's proposals and other matters of interest.

IT SAVED HIS LIFE.

Notes for the Girls.

Statistics show that half and higher education go together. In other words, the women with a high school education do not have as much as the women with a college education. Don't you know that it's usually the women with the highest education who wear the latest fashions?

WEST PARIS.

The Weekly Happenings as Gleaned by Our Special
Staff Reporter.

The addition to the schoolhouse is completed, and the old study rooms renovated, making four good sized rooms which are in charge of the following corps of teachers: Mr. Frank Ross high school department, Mrs. Sadie Patch, grammar; Miss Wood, intermediate; Miss Annie Stecher, primary. Later it is hoped that a gymnasium will be fitted up in the basement of the building.
Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Webber and three children of Lewiston were the guests of Dr. Wheeler, Sunday. Dr. Wheeler returned with them in their auto and went from Lewiston to Waterville and Oakland to visit relatives, returning home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett of Boston are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Shedd.

Mrs. Pearl Shedd, Miss Dora Leighton, Mr. Lynch and Mr. Wish of Portland were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Parnum.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Briggs and daughter Beryl also Earle Adams were the week end guests of relatives in town.

Mrs. Lottie Tuell Bowker of Portland is spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Tuell.

Alton Packard and sister, Miss Ora Packard of Lisbon are visiting in town. Warren Cookson went to Portland, Monday morning and will enter Shaw's Business College.

Rev. Hervey Hoyt of East Hiram, State Supt. of Universalist churches of Maine preached at the First Universalist church Sunday morning.

There will be services in the church next Sunday at the usual hour and it is expected that the church will be again opened.

Charles Briggs is on the sick list and H. R. Tuell is carrying the mail on his route.

Irving Lowe of Portland spent Sunday with his parents at North Paris.

George F. Cummings of Dorchester, Mass., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Fiddell last Wednesday night. Mr. Cummings has been in business in Boston for twenty five years but he plans to attend the Oxford Co. fair each year where he meets many old friends.

The funeral of Parley Whitman occurred at his late home in Woodstock, Friday afternoon and was attended by Rev. Seth Benson of W. Paris. Mr. Whitman's death was the second to occur in the family from pneumonia within two weeks, the little daughter Wynona dying from the same disease. Mr. Whitman was the son of Oliver Greenwood and Hannah (Goodwell) Whitman and was born in Greenwood about thirty five years ago. He married Kate Roberts of Greenwood who with three small children, Florence, Olene and Wendell survives him. The deceased was a member of W. Paris I. O. O. F. The interment was in West Paris cemetery. Much sympathy is expressed for the family.

Mrs. Frances Helt and Mrs. Clark of Bethel were recent guests of their cousin, Mrs. Frank L. Willis.

An auto party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Willis and Mrs. Emma W. Mann of West Paris, Mrs. O. L. Barham of South Paris, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. James Tobin of Norway recently enjoyed a delightful trip to the Bay of Naples, making a ninety-eight mile trip for Mr. Willis' auto in one day.

News has been received of the death of Rev. J. B. Macdonald's father, Andrew Macdonald at his home in Claremont, N. H. Mr. Macdonald was an aged man and has been in feeble health for some time.

R. A. Harrows was at Rockfield Saturday.

A telegram Tuesday forenoon Sept. 13, announcing the sudden death of Ellis Randall Russell of Swampscott, Mass., came as a great shock to his relatives and friends in Canton. Mr. Russell dropped dead Tuesday forenoon of heart disease from which he had suffered for some time. The death is doubly and sadly owing to the fact that his brother, Harvey B. Russell of No. Abington, Mass., died suddenly last week at the insane asylum, after having been there but a few days. His funeral taking place Sunday. Mr. Russell was much overcome by his brother's illness and death and it is thought the sad event hastened his demise. Mr. Russell was born in Hartford, Aug. 14, 1858, the son of Thomas C. Russell and Thelma Randall Russell. He was a war veteran, serving in the war of 1861-5, and was a member of the G. A. R. He was also a Mason, having at one time been a member of Whitney Lodge, No. 107, of Canton. He was a man of considerable ability and played the clarinet and violin. Since his residence in Massachusetts he has followed the occupation of carpenter. He was a man universally respected, of the strictest integrity, and who had many dear and true friends. His usual visits to his sisters in Canton and Hartford will be sadly missed. His married Mrs. Hattie DeBosch, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. DeBosch of Paris, who survives him. Mr. and Mrs. Russell had three children, Lila May, who passed away at

THE NEW FALL DRESS GOODS

In this exhibition of New Dress Goods you may view the weaves and colorings favored by Fashion for Fall Wear. We have carefully selected the choicest products from the leading textile manufacturers. Looms have rarely produced materials of greater beauty.

Plain Serges display many charming colorings—the deep rich tints characteristic of the season's styles. Broadcloths of superior service giving qualities, recommend themselves for garments which must withstand hard wear.

Rough Suitings and Basket weaves have plenty of snap and go to them.

Silk and wool crepons, Tussah Royals, Mixtures and Tweeds are all desirable.

PUNISHING CHILDREN.

It seems as if in this age of civilization that physical punishment ought never to be resorted to. It is not necessary. A parent has full control of a child when it is young, and should keep it. It can never be done by whip-pling, for a boy that is punished that way, always looks forward to the time when he will be too large to be whip-pled, and as he grows he has to be whipped a little harder every time, which in itself proves that form of punishment to be useless and wrong.
In any other method of punishing a child can be shown that he is simply enduring the consequences of a disobedient act, unless, of course, mere injustice is practiced, for children have a fine sense of justice and are not easily deceived by a pretense of it. Too much punishment is as dangerous as too little. It is when one has a glimmer of this idea that he quotes the proverb,
"Spare the rod," etc., to fortify himself, when the proverb would be better forgotten. "Great rewards betoken a falling state." The same is true of much punishment.

The object of all punishment is, of course, to improve a child, to trim off or subdue its faults of character as they appear, and give a better chance for all the good qualities to develop.
There are ways of punishing besides whipping that will defeat this end, and the whole subject is a matter to be gravely considered by parents of young children. It is a common practice to deprive a child of some accustomed or anticipated pleasure because of disobedience. The effect of such punishment depends on the circumstances.
Suppose, for instance, a boy has a premise that he shall go to a certain circus that is coming in a few days, but an occasion arises in which some sort of discipline must be resorted to, and he is told he cannot go to the circus. In such a case all the antagonism of the boy's nature is aroused. He can see no justice in the punishment. He submits because he is obliged to, and the only relief he has is in bating the authority over him, and no doubt feels a contempt, for a time, for one who can give a promise and then take it back. All the matters in relation to the coming of the circus, his mates all going, and everything in connection with it will continually keep his angry feelings uppermost, and he will all the time feel the injustice of the broken promise instead of repentance for his misdeed.
Now if, instead, he had been told that he could not go out of the yard again for any pleasure, except the circus, for a week, nor have any boys in his own yard to play with during that time, but must amuse himself as best he could alone, in consequence of his wrong doing, he would many times during the week wish he had behaved himself properly, and would not have that bitter feeling aroused towards his parents. He would not be made unhappy by his punishment; he would have a chance to think of the matter fairly and would not feel stung and outraged however uncomfortable the restriction became. Instead of feeling angry at it, he would wish that he had not done wrong. A child needs all the sunshine it can have to be fitted for the storms that come in after life, and if in doubt whether a punishment, in certain cases is really a necessity or not, always give the child the benefit of the doubt. A happy child will be the most obedient. The difficulty of a slave is not what we want in children. "The camel moves an swifter before the whip, only behind the bite." —Rose Dalton, in Good Housekeeping.

PRESENT HAPPINESS.
The great secret of gaining happiness in life is to enjoy the present. To be doing one thing and thinking of another is a very unsatisfactory mode of spending life. Some people are always wishing themselves somewhere but where they are, or thinking of something else than what they are doing, or of somebody else than to whom they are speaking. This is the way to enjoy nothing, to do nothing, well, and to please nobody. It is better to be interested in whatever persons and interests than to be indifferent with the best. A principle cause of this indifference is the neglect of other people's interests instead of the cultivation of their own, the pursuit after that for which we are not fitted, and to which, consequently we are not in reality inclined. This folly pervades more or less all classes, and arises from error of building our enjoyment on the false foundation of the world's opinion, instead of being, with due regard to others, each our own world.

WOMEN DO TOO MUCH AND GET WORRIED.

"One of the mistakes of women,"
said a woman lecturer the other day,
"is in loving too much; they can never make a mistake in loving, but they ought to be careful in picking out the man; they are rather apt to do it on the grab-bag principle. Another of the mistakes of women is not knowing how to rest, and still another is not knowing how to eat. What women don't know about both has built ten thousand hospitals. Consider the ways of man and be wise. Women worry too much; they hurry too much; they are misers to jollity, and they nearly always die leaving a large account in the Bank of Meritment. Women not only cross bridges before they come to them, but they are gifted bridge builders.
Men can stop in the midst of perplexities and have a 'guffaw.' It is this faculty that keeps them young. Women cannot, and that is why they fade earlier. Worry not only wrinkles the face, but it wrinkles and withers the mind as well. Some women make the mistake of thinking they are jealous of their husbands, when, as a matter of fact, they are simply selfish. They seem to think that if a poor man's symor feet stray, his heart has gone. A woman arrogates a good deal to herself when she thinks she is going to be the whole world to a man twenty-four hours out of a day, year in and out. If instead, wives would keep their eyes and hearts alert to see that love did not get away, there would be less domestic friction." —McCall's Magazine.

Hurt His Feelings.

"Bede me," snapped the fiery housewife, "you never associated with gentlemen!"

The wayfarer was visibly hurt.
"Lady," he said humbly, "you do me an injustice. Ain't I just from de Pittsburg pen? And de warden says himself dere are so many gentlemen dere he is going to do away with stripes."

"JUST PUBLISHED"

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary,
(G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.)
represents the old International as much as the book extended its production. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built.
The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and simplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The synonyms, synonyms, pronunciation have received remarkable scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fulness and clearness.
In size of vocabulary, in richness of phraseology, in conciseness of definition, in completeness of illustration, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

400,000 words and phrases.

6000 illustrations.

2700 pages.
